THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR, NO. 34.

BAY ST. LOUIS HAS NEVER HAD FINER PROSPECTS THAN PRESENT TIME

Fishing Village of Yesterday Has Changed to Beautiful Active City—Ideal Place to Live—Haven of Health and Happiness.

This is a new era for Bay St. Louis and the Bay-Waveland district in general, since both cities are divided by imaginary lines and the interests of both are inimical. Bay St. Louis has never marched forward within its long years of history as the past twenty-four-month period.

Aladdin with his wonder lamp could not have brought forth more magic-like change than has been wrought by so comparative short a time as we witness—the fishing village of yesterday where folks chose the path of least resistance and dreamed their lives away to the strictly modern and live city-by-the-sea of today, forging ahead not only with pace, but growing in a material and substantial manner, leaving no doubt and indicating emphatically and unmistakably what the morrow will bring.

The history of Bay St. Louis, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," is of interest, for does it not well nigh read like history? The oldest inhabitant sees the transition, but does not realize it fully. The pace is rapid. Not the seven-league-boot kind, but actual and lasting; permanent in the benefits it's wide wake.

Yesterday's history. But the charm of Bay St. Louis, its lure and its lingering memories of the place where one loves best to live, is inefable. Modern trend will never efface the fragrance of old lavender and beauty of old lace. So it is, we will ever have the spirit of Beautiful Bay St. Louis, haven of home and happiness, along with the newer forms and customs of today linked inseparably with that of yesterday.

Predicating the morrow with the open book of today we have much to look for. Our churches, various schools, civic and social clubs, along with fraternal and benevolent organizations; our public improvements and projects; business enterprises and building of dwellings and other structures, many today will be in more multiple number tomorrow. Our people are happy and prosperous, satisfied, not beyond laudatory ambition, for standing still is going backward, and a people who thus give every living manifestation of being content, are bound to be receptive to greater achievement and accomplishment will follow.

August is a good month; beware of peddlers.

The most popular summer fruit is the bathing peach.

Many men order what they can't pay for when it comes.

The average politician keeps one ear buried in the sand.

Taxes come due regularly, with great accent on the regularly.

It is a wise editor who is able to tell when news is propaganda.

August may be the last month of summer but it isn't sizzling alone.

The average sweet young thing is hoping summer evenings will last forever.

You can't persuade many men that the ladies care nothing about their looks.

Many a high school student looks to his football togs more than to his books.

There are some people who believe all that they read in catalogs.

From Paris comes word of shorter skirts—they're going to cut 'em down at the top.

Even some politicians now believe President Coolidge meant what he seemed to say.

Next Sunday when you go to church see if you can get your fingers on a coin larger than a dime. The pastor last Sunday asked for it.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to believe that a man's word was his bond?

Not every sport wears a uniform; in fact, some of them have nothing to do with athletic events.

When airplanes are as cheap as Fords you won't have to stop and give your walking friend a lift.

What has become of the old-fashioned mother who used to sit and talk to her daughter's caller?

The importance of the opinion of some people is only equalled by the importance of the same people.

What you read is not always to be believed; learning to read wisely, which is more important than reading.

Our idea of a fool driver is one who comes around Main and Front street corner with his eye on some passing flapper.

Somebody is trying to discover a synthetic gasoline; what the business world wants is a painless collection process.

School children in Bay St. Louis are holding no mass meeting to urge the immediate resumption of their studies.

It is amusing to see how much "intelligent" politicians can read in President Coolidge's twelve-word message.

Our extra slice of pie for this week is awarded to the doctor at Gulfport whose reading matter on the table in reception room is up to date.

If the church conference in Geneva comes to an end without a row the cause of religion will, at least, not be harmed.

The slowness with which the human race accepts great truths is only equalled by the ease with which it accepts error.

We are anxious to know the name of any Bay St. Louis housekeeper who buys merchandise from peddlers on credit.

Mistakes are mistakes. The editor wrote "Dog Saves Family." The printer got it, "God Saves Family," and he might have been right after all.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to dodge a front seat in the show because he was afraid the chorus girls might pick on him?

When you think of more than one way to make money it might be a good idea to stop thinking and grab the business end of one of the schemes.

The sweet young thing who said she enjoyed reading The Sea Coast Echo is not as simple as a lot of young men we know.

Our contribution to the Question and Answer craze: Who is going to be the nice, little boy and pay up his subscription to this sheet of freedom today? You answer.

The next conference necessary for the peace of the world is one to disarm certain newspaper writers. Prejudice and passion, improperly propagated, are more dangerous than navies.

Contributions to this column from any reader will be gladly considered for publication. We only hope that they are, as near as may be, original. Names of contributors to be printed!

A new activity in real estate circles this week is indicative of Bay St. Louis' stability and its splendid immediate future. The fact there is more building operations over the city than ever at any time is not without meaning.

The predictions that the big Coast winter hotels could not survive the summer is not to be realized by the fact Edgewater and others are filled to well-nigh full capacity.

WHAT "AMERICANISM" IS THIS?

There are in the United States many citizens who were born abroad. There are many aliens who, while born abroad, wish to become American citizens. There are native-born Americans who profess great admiration for foreign governments and seemingly, by their approval relinquish their faith in American institutions.

These three classes are represented in Bay St. Louis. We have all of them in our midst. During the World war, and prior to our entry into the struggle, the diverse loyalty of these divided allegiances caused considerable trouble and stirred up much hatred. The problem of divided loyalty is always hard to handle.

Congressman Albert Johnson, Chairman of the House Committee of Immigration and Naturalization, recently warned aliens not to participate in demonstrations against the government. This was, it seems to us good advice. However, it affects only one class of the group mentioned in our first paragraph.

About the same day that we read Congressman Johnson's warning, issued in view of the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations over the world, we also read that the King of Italy had decorated Supreme Court Justice William H. Black, of New York, in recognition of his services in attempting to raise the immigration quota. The judge, highly tickled, said, "I feel this is the most distinguished honor he (Mussolini) could have conferred upon me."

This, however, illustrates an evil tendency on the part of some of our citizens to receive recognition from foreign governments. It is particularly vicious when the award comes for efforts to alter American laws. If every foreign-born citizen in this country would follow the lead of Justice Black there would be developed quite a chase for foreign "honors," to the disgrace of democracy here.

RAILROADS TO HAUL FREIGHT ONLY.

Earnings for railroads, from passenger service, in 1927 will reach new low levels. The revenue from this source has dropped hundreds of millions of dollars since 1920, indicating the growth of automobile service throughout the nation.

During the current year the loss has extended to the sleeping car revenues, indicating that automobiles are being used for longer trips than heretofore. This is natural, in view of better roads and service stations everywhere.

The railroads, as we have pointed out before, have signally failed to provide transportation that will compete with modern inventions. The automobile has hit them hard blows and the airplane is soon to assist in delivering knockout punches as far as passenger travel is concerned.

Unless the railroads develop a better technique and mobile services all over the country the day is not distant when the only traffic left to them will be freight. This, however, is not altogether an unmixed evil. The present prosperity of the roads is greater than when passenger travel was at its peak. The development of better freight service and the lowering of rates, based upon increased volume, might mean a prosperity for the railroads in the future that will dwarf their successful years of the past.

PERJURY IN THE COURTS.

The average citizen used to have a great respect for the courts. This was before the day of smart lawyers, who often win regardless of which side they represent, and of what it takes to win.

There has, we regret to state, grown into being a considerable opinion that a trial today is largely a matter of the more lying. This belief is encouraged by the remarks of Federal Judge Shepard, of Brooklyn, who declared that "false testimony in court is becoming as common as violations of the Volstead act." It is confirmed by the statement of Judge Joseph B. David, of Chicago, that "everybody knows that divorce court evidence is mostly lying."

The criticism of this condition is easy, but before being too ready to assess blame we should ponder the matter. Are our citizens less truthful than heretofore? Is the sanctity of the oath in general disregarded? Is untruthfulness in the courts today the result of a looseness in religious beliefs?

LOVE VS. AN AXE.

Eighteen years ago a young Polish girl, working in a laundry, saved her money in order to send to Poland for the sweetheart she had left behind her. He came over, they were married and last week he hit her in the head with an axe.

To the police he declared, "we were fighting all the time. I decided the best thing to do was to kill her and myself too to stop the fighting."

The surprising thing is that both were working and had just saved enough to buy a home. They won't die now. Some lawyer will get it to see that the husband has a fair trial, at the end of which the state will probably complete the work that the police prevented the husband from doing.

THE REAL TRAGEDY.

Three people were convicted in Louisiana last week for the murder of a man. His widow, his alleged lover, and another alleged conspirator were found guilty by the jury, and the first two will die. The other gets life imprisonment. Four lives, in all, ruined by jealousy, lust, hatred, or some human tragedy.

Worst of all is the effect upon the homes of these people. The press dispatch read: "Mrs. Lebouef is 38 years old and has four children. Dr. Dreher is 55 and has five children. Beadle is 46 and has seven children. Most of them were present in the courtroom."

Sixteen little lives started off under such a cloud. That's the real tragedy of the brutal crime.

VIOLENCE.

Members of the Coast Guard patrolling the Florida Coast a few years ago were attacked by liquor runners and two Government men were killed in the fight in open sea. The bootlegging launch was captured.

Such tactics will make the enforcement of the prohibition law more inevitable than ever. A government cannot permit its laws to be flagrantly violated and its enforcing agents made the subject of unchallenged assault by law-breakers. The attack referred to above was the second which had occurred.

CANNED PROGRAMS.

Radio will not be allowed to mislead its auditors, if the Federal Radio Commission can prevent it.

Order has been promulgated that when a broadcaster makes use of mechanical music, it must be announced as such so that the public will not be misled.

No censure is made against the use of such programs and the only concern seems to be that no misrepresentation be made.

Advertising in small towns is like advertising in big towns—the income taxpayers do it all.

This Week.Crossing the Ocean.
Death and a Trip to Europe.News From Both Sides.
Perhaps We Come Back?
BY ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1927)

Written on the Aquitania on the way to Paris, by way of Cherbourg, leaving New York just after midnight yesterday morning.

No matter how often you cross big ships like this, or little ones, you are reminded that the long trip called death and an ocean voyage are not unlike.

You take your "last dinner" in New York, friends are more or less sorry to see you go. That's the death. On board ship you sail through space for some thousands of miles, with only water all around you. That's the trip from here to the next world.

In due time you land in that next world, to find it different from this, and very interesting.

If you go to Paris—this writer is going there—you reach what many Americans consider a fairly good imitation of heaven.

The safety in crossing our little ocean, the certainty of landing on the other side, should make us worry less about the big crossing over the ocean of ether.

Once we knew as little about an Atlantic crossing as we know now about the "final trip" that each must take when his turn comes.

When Columbus started, they told him he would fall over the edge of the ocean.

When the Phoenicians, ancestors of many energetic Jewish citizens, first sailed from the Mediterranean, through the Straits of Gibraltar, past the gigantic rock and into the Atlantic Ocean, friends thought that was the end of them.

Now crossing the ocean is like going from New York to Chicago. You hear from your friends on both sides of the ocean. Business messages come from the United States side, other messages from the European side; when 1,000 miles from shore.

Science has conquered this little ocean, intelligence has made it familiar, cleared out sea serpents, taught us we need not put wax in our ears to shut out the singing of sirens, convinced us, to our sorrow, that no mermaids are waiting to pick us up when we fall overboard. All fear and superstition are gone from these floating cities. A preacher on board does not worry the sailors—there are no sailors.

Our oceans and our land have been cleared of all superstitions, unreal horrors, chimeras, hydras and gorgons dire.

It has taken men all of the million years they have lived on earth to change from cavemen cannibals to modern exploiters of their fellow men and to get rid of earthly superstitions. Many haven't even done that yet.

Eventually we shall get rid of all the superstitions and look forward to death, come back from that trip to earth and take up their work about where they dropped them.

To them it seems reasonable to credit Eternal Justice with wise economy, and it would seem useless waste of time to send billions of imperfect creatures to work in another corner of the universe when the work here isn't finished.

We are only twelve thousand years from the late Stone Age, not two hundred years from the stage coach and sailboat.

A simple idea like putting the eye of a needle in the point instead of the thick end made the sewing machine possible and freed millions of women from slavery. We should believe that other ideas will free us from the slavery of superstition, which has driven us hard through the centuries and caused more brutality, fear, cruelty and murder than all other causes together.

Tennyson hoped there would be no moaning at the bar when he put out to sea, and wrote prettily about "Twilight and Evening Star." Typical mid-Victorian, that last trip wasn't finished.

Earth's citizens of the year 10,000,000 may think as little about its "last" journey, feel as sure about it as a modern thinks and feels about his trip to Paris now.

Sixteen little lives started off under such a cloud. That's the real tragedy of the brutal crime.

I take this occasion to publicly thank my good friends in Hancock County for their wonderful work in my behalf, in my recent campaign for District Attorney.

Though defeated for this high office, I have no regrets to express as I made a clean, fair fight and feel that my friends stood by me loyally and I want each and every one of them to know I appreciate their efforts in my behalf more than I can ever express in words.

With Conner and Anderson eliminated from the gubernatorial contest in the second primary, public interest centers in the reactions of the friends of these gentlemen and of the friendly press to the defeat of their favorites, and in their opinions as to the factors responsible therefor. One of the ablest advocates of Conner, the Grenada Sentinel, is outspoken this week to the point of sensationalism in voicing its surprise and dissatisfaction that its candidate did not lead the anti-Bilbo vote. In the leading editorial Mr. Lawrence says among other things: "They (the untried Democracy of the state) want Bilbo for governor. We believe it is a waste of further time and energy to struggle against the inevitable." In another editorial he states that "There will be some publications after the primary which will show that Conner was the victim of political slander"; and after stating that John Williams says that Conner is the ablest man who has offered for governor in Mississippi in 25 years, asks, "Then why was he not placed in the second primary?"

The burning of Bellhaven College in the northeastern section of this city early Tuesday morning, the result, presumably, of a lightning flash, that broke over Jackson between 5 and 6 o'clock, has been a blow to Presbyterians of the state and to this city that has great pride in the number and excellence of its educational institutions. Immediate steps were taken to provide comfortable quarters for the girls already enrolled for the coming year—about two hundred—and the Board of Trustees has been assured by contractors that temporary arrangements can be made by Oct. 1, that will permit the opening of the school.

An alteration in the business district of Brookhaven is reported that is highly characteristic of the age. The big livery stable that for thirty years was an important factor in the business life of the city and contributed, as well, to its social activities, has been taken over and will be remodeled for a 24-hour storage garage.

Teachers in the Singleton (Leake county) school this year must wear their dress sleeves not shorter than one inch above the elbow and their dress skirts not more than one-half the distance from the knee to the ground. The Board of Trustees has spoken and sets up the defense that other states have adopted regulations regarding the dresses worn by lady school teachers.

With the announcement shortly to be made of the personnel of the 1928-29 legislature the thinking public will begin to ask how much will be between the second primary—which is virtually the election in this state—and the convening of the law-making body on Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1928, will be spent by the persons honored with the state's confidence in their wisdom and judgment in study of the constitution of offices and departments of government as a key to the financial problems that will be presented to the legislature. An invaluable source of information, especially to the novice in the art of legislation, are the reports to the legislature; and these are usually to be had a short while, at least, before the convening of the legislature, as officials and heads of departments are learning the well-informed legislator is most likely to be the progressive and liberal one.

Among the reports to go early to the printer is that of the Department of Health, advance sheets of which show remarkable progress in organization and scope.

The section on the duties and functions of the executive officer of the Department, who is the State Health Officer, shows how amazingly the activities of the Department ramify.

Stated briefly these duties are: To determine health policies, their order of development and emphasis; to work out proper educational methods for effecting the best results in public health work; to present to the legislature the needs of the State Health Department for each biennium; to study the organization and needs of the bureaus, or divisions created under the department, with a view to giving such direction, supervision and assistance as may be necessary to accomplish the largest possible success for the money expended; to enlist within the State the interest of agents and organizations offering possibilities of co-operation in public health work, and secure the interest of national public health organizations and foundations that may be of financial aid to the Board; to supervise and properly correlate the health activities of state, counties and municipalities with other agencies engaged in health work; to find and recommend well-trained health officers, public health nurses, sanitary inspectors and technicians to boards of supervisors maintaining full-time health departments; to supervise the licensing of physicians by examination or by transfer from other states; to represent the State at meetings of national and international scope; and to act as host to distinguished representatives from other states and nations.

D. F. J. Underwood, the present incumbent of this office of multifarious duties, has had occasion to exercise its last named function many times in the past few months, distinguished visitors having been in this state from England and Holland in the interest of the health work of the League of Nations; important members of the United States Public Health Service having been here frequently during the past period, and during the past week Col. J. L. Rusell, director of the health division of the Rockefeller Foundation, having spent several days in the state, visiting the medical school for public health work recently established at Indiana, studying with Dr. Underwood the organization of the State Department, and looking over the medical work now being done on the part of the Foundation.

A new time record for prize fight crowds and purses loomed before Tex Rickard and his aides at Chicago Monday as they settled down to the business of getting everything ready for the Tex-Tommy Dempsey fight at Soldier Field September 22.

Lumberjacks VS. Bay Stars.

(Special to Sea Coast Echo)

The Lumberjacks squad will meet the Bay Stars on the latter's home lot, the St. Stanislaus College Park, Sunday, the 21st. The locals are just fresh from a 8-6 victory over the reorganized Long Beach nine with Marvin Lacey in the box, who is rated to be one of the Coast's best. The Lumberjacks have been playing a fast brand of ball all the season, and are dopoed to give the Bay Boys a hard fight.

The Stars have not played as many games during the season as the Lumberjacks, but have strengthened their line-up in several places, and are confident that they are able to take the measure of the invaders. According to reports from the Bay Jack Ladner, former Cotton States Star, will do the tossing with Blaize, of Spring Hill, behind the bat. The locals will most probably use "Old Man" Summers, their ace, who has been on the sick list with Burke, formerly of A. & M., on the receiving end. Considering the hot rivalry existing between the two teams, both teams using their home talents, the greatest game of the year is anticipated.

—Miss Rosabelle Brown, accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Brown, of New Orleans, has returned to New Orleans after a brief but delightful visit to Mrs. Alice Bobbitt in Nicholson Ave.

—Miss Agnes Shannon left Monday morning over the L. & N. route for Louisville, Ky., visiting friends in the former home town and where she will remain several weeks, and look after property interest in that city for her sister, Mrs. L. D. Fahey.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Veal and little daughter, Shirley, came out from New Orleans Friday evening and were house guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. R. de Moncluzin, on the North Beach Front. They plan to return later on a motor trip extending as far as Mobile.

—Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lorch and daughter, Miss Irwin, the latter recently returned from a visit to several months with friends in South America, left Saturday morning for Asheville, N.C., where they will remain for the next several weeks, until the heated term will have well spent itself.

—Miss Carrie Lorch left New Orleans Wednesday morning for Los Angeles and other California points to visit friends and to be gone until the middle of October. Miss Lorch left New Orleans Wednesday morning for Los Angeles and other California points, to visit friends and to be gone until the middle of October. Miss Lorch spent the summer with her parents at the family summer home on the Bay St. Louis beach front.

—Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Toca and interesting little son are out from New Orleans on annual two-week vacation, and are visiting at the home of Mrs. Toca's mother, Mrs. F. C. Borgades, on the beach front. Mr. Toca is prominently connected with one of the largest structural steel firms South, and travels frequently in the interest of the firm, recently returning from a stay of several days in Miami, Fla., in the interest of a number of major contracts.

—With the advent of cooler weather, Mr. and Mrs. John Osoinach, with their son, Paul, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter, plan motororing to California with Sacramento as their ultimate point of destination, where Mr. and Mrs. Osoinach contemplate spending a while, and Mr. and Mrs. Porter remaining. The itinerary for the proposed trip will take the party through a number of the Mid-West cities, thence across the desert and finally into the boundaries of the Golden State.

—Mrs. W. W. Redditt, of Money, Miss., is at the bedside of her father, Mr. W. W. Nye, who continues quite ill. Mr. Nye's sister, Miss Mary Nye, of Greenwood, Miss., and his son, Mr. J. Nye, of Carrollton, Miss., were recent visitors in the Nye home. Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGeoy, of Greenwood, Miss., were also visitors. Mrs. McGeoy will be pleasantly remembered as Evelyn Redditt, who before her marriage was a frequent visitor in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Nye, on the Waveland beach front.

—Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Waller and charming little Miss Waller, after motoring from their home in Tallahassee, Fla., to Silver Creek, Miss., where they visited the Waller relatives, remained at St. Louis during the early part of the week, en route to Mrs. Waller's sisters, Mrs. R. W. Taylor and the Misses McGinn. Mr. Waller is a member of the firm of Gex & Waller, former representative from Hancock county to the Legislature, and has numberless friends locally who were glad to see him, as well as his interesting little family.

—The constant local increase of business by the Mississippi Power Company is not only due to the excellent service rendered, but liberally supplemented by the efficiency and uniform courtesy of the Bay St. Louis resident manager, M. L. Anley, who is striving in his effort to serve both his company and patrons, an endeavor of mutual interest and satisfaction. His success to serve is well worthy of note. Too frequently service and other considerations are taken for granted, and the extra efforts and thorough interest are factors lost sight of.

—The little ads in the "Classified Column" are always of interest and invariably source of mutual benefit. Besides, there are always information carried in the little ads. This week someone wishes patronage for "Dressmaking and Sewing," and possibly something else might be of particular interest to someone in particular. Recently a sewing machine was advertised for sale in these columns and the owner was simply overwhelmed. Replies came from all parts of the country. In his desperation, he said: "Cut it out!" But the ad was for only one time and cost but 30 cents.

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.

To the Voters of Hancock County

JOSEPH C. JONES.

I want first to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the men and women voters of Hancock County for the splendid vote given me on August 2nd.

This, with the many manifestations of support from citizens not supporting me in the first primary, especially in Bay St. Louis, leads me to conclude that my SIXTEEN years of service as Deputy Sheriff is a factor and is appreciated generally, and that I will be elected in the run-off primary on August 23rd. It is no secret that many of the supporters of Mr. Claude Monti in the first race now are not only supporting my candidacy, but are actively at work among their friends in my behalf.

I sincerely regret that my limited finances do not permit me to reach in person all the voters as I would like to, hence am using this means in behalf of my candidacy.

Unlike my opponent, Mr. Ed. Kellar, I am not a resident of Bay St. Louis. It is my understanding that all County Officers maintain residences in the County Seat, and that he has been a resident of Bay St. Louis, our County Seat, only so long as he has held a County Office.

I pledge the voters of this entire county my honest and best efforts in the proper fulfillment of my duty as Sheriff, and in all seriousness, and with due respect to my opponent, I ask the support of the voters and taxpayers on August 23rd, because I believe I am the best qualified for the office.

Yours for Honest Service,

JOSEPH C. JONES.
